ST GEORGE'S is the oldest continually inhabited English-settled town in the New World and was founded over four centuries ago. In November of 2000, UNESCO designated it a World Heritage Site.

It is where Bermuda's history began. It was Bermuda's capital from 1612, when the first settlers arrived, until 1815 when the new town of Hamilton became the capital.

In St George's you are surrounded by history that unfolds around each corner, in every quaint, narrow alley and in buildings that have stood for centuries.

For over 50 years the Bermuda National Trust has worked to protect and promote Bermuda's unique natural and cultural heritage for everyone, forever.

In the Trust's care are 29 historic buildings, including 11 listed buildings in the World Heritage Site, and over 280 acres of open space, including woodland, wetlands, farmland, coastline, islands, gardens and historic cemeteries. In addition to its stewardship, the Trust is a strong advocate for Bermuda's environment and cultural heritage and has an active education programme that aims to inspire young and old to appreciate and value our heritage.

The Trust is an independent, non-profit organisation which relies on donations, legacies, and the subscriptions of members who share a love of Bermuda and a desire to safeguard its heritage.
